Request Public Records

The public is welcome to review the public records of the Nebraska Department of Environmental Quality (NDEQ). The following options are available:

Please click the triangle in the left column to expand or collapse a section.

- ▶ Visit the office at 1200 N Street, Suite 400, in Lincoln. Schedule a time to view records in the Lincoln office
- ▶ Submit a Request for Information - How to request records by phone, email, or fax.
- ▶ Interactive Map Server on the NDEQ Webpage - How to search for a facility and view document images.

▼ Online Document Searches – How to view document images for a facility.

Facility-related documents have been imaged into the State of Nebraska's Enterprise Content Management System (ECM) since April 2011. The ECM is the repository of official facility records that are created or received by the agency. Documents that have been scanned into the ECM are available to review from our Public Records Search. To use this option, you will need to know the facility number and program. You can call 402-471-3557 or email ndeq.records@nebraska.gov to obtain a facility number for a records search.

Documents received or generated prior to April 2011 may NOT be available for viewing through the map server.
NOTE: There is an issue with displaying large document images at this time. We are working on a resolution. If you have a document not display, please call 402-471-3557 or email ndeq.records@nebraska.gov with information about the document.

If the search returns with no documents available, or if you need to access older documents, follow the instructions for Submit a Request for Information.
