

Art Contest for 2025 Environmental Calendar

DEADLINE: Entries must be postmarked no later than May 1, 2024

Recycling, composting, and keeping litter in its place are among the many ways we keep Nebraska clean. Put your artistic talents to good use by submitting a drawing for the 2025 “Nebraska: Don’t Waste It!” calendar. The calendar, sponsored by the Nebraska Department of Environment and Energy, will feature the artwork for students from grades K-12. We’re looking for drawings that demonstrate the importance of good environmental practices and tips on reducing waste, recycling, and protecting Nebraska’s air, land and water. The front cover and each month of the calendar will feature one of the 13 winning environmental posters.

If your artwork is chosen for the calendar, you will:

- Have your artwork, name and school’s name featured on a page of the calendar;
- Be invited to an awards presentation at the State Capitol in Lincoln;
- Receive copies of the calendar to share with family and friends; and
- Help educate others about how to protect our environment.

Contest Guidelines

All Nebraska students in grades K-12 are eligible to submit their artwork. One piece of student art will be featured each month. The grand prize winner’s work will be featured on the cover.

Theme — Create a drawing or painting that shows how we can keep Nebraska clean by recycling, composting, properly disposing of household hazardous waste (like old paint and cleaning products), cleaning up litter, and any other activity that will keep our air, land and water clean.

Deadline — Entries must be postmarked no later than May 1, 2024.

Artwork — Submit all artwork on 8 ½ x 11 unlined white paper in a landscape, or horizontal, orientation. Fill out the label included in this form and attach to the back of your artwork.
