1. EXECUTIVE SUMMARY

EA Engineering, Science, & Technology, Inc., PBC (EA) has performed a statewide inventory of facilities that used or produced Perfluorinated Compounds (PFCs), in Nebraska. This includes the high profile Perfluorooctanoic Acid (PFOA) and Perfluorooctane Sulfonate (PFOS). The goal of the statewide PFC Inventory is to identify and locate properties, based on ascertainable current and historical sources and records, suspected to have used or produced PFCs during business or manufacturing processes in Nebraska.

PFCs, when released into the environment, are persistent, highly soluble chemicals that migrate freely in soil and groundwater. PFCs have the potential to discharge to surface water creating a direct source of exposure for fish and wildlife. Due to the persistence of PFCs, they also tend to bio-accumulate in fish and wildlife, exposing species to PFCs that otherwise would not be affected.

Sources of human exposure to PFCs and resulting health effects are not fully understood at this time; however, studies in animals have shown that the liver, thyroid, pancreatic function, and hormone levels may be affected. Additional studies in humans suggest PFCs may interfere with natural hormones, increase cholesterol, and increase cancer risk. However, additional research is required to conclusively determine the effects PFCs have to human health (Agency for Toxic Substances and Disease Registry, 2016).

PFOA and PFOS were historically used in Aqueous Film Forming Foam (AFFF) formulations for fire suppression. In addition to AFFF, PFCs were used in a variety of surface treatments and performance chemicals including fabric and leather treatments, various surfactants, food containers, pesticides, rubber products, non-stick cookware, paints and special coatings, airplane hydraulic fluid, waterproof fabric, metal plating, photographic processes, and electronic manufacturing.

Facilities that potentially used or manufactured PFCs are present throughout the state of Nebraska. By identifying potential sites, the Nebraska Department of Environmental Quality (NDEQ) will be able to prioritize further PFC studies, sampling, and cleanup efforts.

This PFC Inventory has revealed evidence of 990 facilities that have been identified as having characteristics that either historically or currently present the potential for PFC environmental contamination. The identified facilities, as outlined in this inventory, are also provided as a deliverable in an Environmental Systems Research Institute (ESRI) ArcGIS Geodatabase. The Geodatabase serves as a supplemental tool to this inventory and includes information provided in the Facility Inventory Table. Facility identification numbers in the geodatabase correspond directly with the facility identification numbering convention of this report.

2. INTRODUCTION

2.1 PURPOSE

The purpose of the Perfluorinated Compounds (PFCs) inventory is to develop a statewide list of facilities that used or produced PFCs in Nebraska. This includes the high profile Perfluorooctanoic Acid (PFOA) and Perfluorooctane Sulfonate (PFOS), which were used in Aqueous Film Forming Foam (AFFF) formulations for fire suppression. In addition to AFFF, PFCs were used in a variety of surface treatments and performance chemicals including fabric and leather treatments, various surfactants, food containers, pesticides, rubber products, anti-fogging, non-stick cookware, paints and special coatings, airplane hydraulic fluid, waterproof fabric, metal plating, photographic processes, and electronic manufacturing. This report reflects the observations, information, and data collected by EA during the period of August 29, 2016 through March 10, 2017. Supporting documentation is provided in the following appendices:

- Appendix A – Figures
- Appendix B – Tables

2.2 DETAILED SCOPE OF SERVICES

The scope of services for the project included the following:

Source Review and Facility Compilation

- Compile a comprehensive list of four-digit Standard Industrial Classification (SIC) codes, and North American Industry Classification System (NAICS) codes specific to the types of business activities, industry and/or manufacturing related to PFC use and/or production.
- Provide the comprehensive list of the SIC and NAICS codes to the NDEQ Project Manager, and EA will be provided with a list of regulated facilities in Nebraska that are identified with the SIC and/or NAICS codes.
- Review the Department of Defense (DOD) for Fire/Crash Training Area Sites (as of 2014) to compile sites identified in Nebraska.
- Contact the Nebraska State Fire Marshal to identify municipal and/or rural Fire/Crash Training sites throughout the state.
- Review the Directory of Nebraska Manufacturers and their Products; to the extent possible. They are available in print at the University of Nebraska Love Library for years 1949 to 1999. A list of Manufactures and/or products will be generated from review of the directories.

GIS Database Development and Figures

- Prepare an Environmental Systems Research Institute (ESRI) ArcGIS Geodatabase as a final deliverable to serve as a supplemental tool in addition to the final report. The Nebraska PFC Inventory Geodatabase will incorporate the table information identified above, as a one-click, desktop accessible tool:
  - Facility name and/or Industry type.
  - Approximate location and global positioning system (GPS) coordinates of facilities identified as part of the assessment.
  - Key information on the products and/or processes of concern.
  - Estimated start and end of use.
  - Referenced source from which the information was gathered.
  - Additional pertinent information and functionality may be added to future phases of the dataset to meet future assessment needs.
- Utilize the geodatabase to produce a statewide figure illustrating the facilities identified in the inventory, and provide as part of the report deliverable.

Reporting

- Prepare a report with a short narrative based on the findings and provide a comprehensive table listing the inventory of sites collected through the sources identified above. The inventory table will provide the facility name and/or industry type, location, product of concern or process of concern, and the estimated start and end of use.

2.3 SIGNIFICANT ASSUMPTIONS

The analysis and opinions expressed in this report are based upon the data obtained from the sources discussed in this report.

This report is prepared for the exclusive use of the NDEQ for specific application to the project as discussed and has been prepared in accordance with generally accepted local assessment practices within the scope of the client's directives. No warranties, either expressed or implied, are intended or made. Should there be any observation of any changes in the nature or location of potential facilities, as outlined, the conclusions and recommendations contained in this report cannot be considered valid unless the changes are reviewed and the conclusions and objectives of this report are modified or verified in writing by EA.

Assessments, such as the one performed for this project, are of limited scope, are noninvasive, and cannot eliminate the potential that PFCs are or are not present or have or have not been released at individual sites within the project area. In conducting the limited scope of services described herein, certain sources of information and public records were not reviewed. It should be recognized that environmental concerns may be documented in public records that were not reviewed. An inventory, such as this, cannot wholly eliminate uncertainty regarding the potential for environmental conditions in connection with projects such as these properties. These limitations must be considered as the user of this report formulates opinions as to risks associated with properties within the project boundary or otherwise uses the report for any other purpose. These risks may be further evaluated – but not eliminated – through additional research or assessment.

3. APPROACH AND DATA SOURCES

This PFC Inventory was completed using methods relying primarily on desktop research of available historic resources in compilation with NDEQ’s regulated facility database. Below is a summary of the general approach and data sources used during the PFC Inventory.

3.1 APPROACH

Facilities were located through research methods based upon a desktop review of available environmental and regulatory data. Desktop research focused on a screening of facilities, past and present, which are within Nebraska and considered a potential facility and/or site for using and/or producing PFCs. All desktop research was completed by EA staff, with the addition of a regulatory facility list provided by the NDEQ project manager from EA’s SIC and NAICS search parameter list; no interviews were conducted during the research period. Facilities are graphically displayed on county-wide Figure 1 to Figure 73 in Appendix A. A complete listing of search parameter SIC and NAICS codes, and their industry descriptions is provided as Table B-1 and B-2, respectively, in Appendix B.

The properties of PFCs and related substances have been used in a variety of products and applications in the last century. PFOS and PFOA represent the final environmental degradation products of, and contaminants in, a wide range of products (Walters et.al 2006).

3.1.1 PFOS Screening

The environmentally persistent PFOS, is not extensively used on its own, but is an essential breakdown product of a diverse class of PFCs (Walters et.al 2006). This class is illustrated below, as it was used to identify potential manufacturing products and/or processes that would indicate potential environmental contamination from PFOS:

PFOS: Major product categories
(Walters et. al, 2006)

3.1.2 PFOA Screening

The use of PFOA and its ammonium salt as a polymerization aid in the manufacture of polytetrafluoroethylene (PTFE), has resulted in source releases of that compound. The only direct use of PFOA is as a non-reactive polymerization aid in the production of fluoropolymers. Applications of the most widely used fluoropolymer, polytetrafluoroethylene (PTFE), include electrical wire insulation, specialist circuit boards, plumbers tape, waterproof membranes for garments (such as Gore-Tex), surgical implants, dental floss, engine protector additives, non-stick coatings, molded parts and coatings. The concentration of PFOA in polymer pastes, membranes and moldings depends upon the processing techniques used.

Fluorotelomer alcohols (FTOH) are used as surfactants and intermediates in the manufacture of a variety of products with application that include polymers, paints, adhesives, and cleaning agents. One application, the use of FTOH to produce polymers for use on fabrics and in paper to repel water/grease, and anti-soiling, is most prominent in terms of consumer exposure. Impregnation of paper/cardboard with FTOH derived polymers or additives are used to manufacture plates, food containers, bags, and wraps (Walters et.al, 2006).

3.1.3 Priority Designation

The uses and breakdowns of PFOS and PFOA were used to identify potential manufacturing products and/or processes that would indicate potential environmental contamination. Once the list of products and processes was identified as described above, the list was applied to derive SIC and NAICS codes based on those industry descriptions and products. From the SIC and NAICS code lists, high and low priority was assigned to each code based on estimated probability of PFC use in the product and/or process. High priority is assigned to products with historically confirmed use of PFC such as PTFE products, chrome/nickel plating operations, cosmetics, and furniture, carpet, textile treatments. Lower priority was assigned to products and/or processes with only suspected use, based on PFC guidance, to have PFC use in the product and/or processes. These may include electronics manufacturing, paper products, and textile products that may have only suspected use of PFC. EA consulted NDEQ, the Vermont 2016 PFC Site Data Summary and Estimated Risk Rating (NDEQ 2016) case study provided by the NDEQ, and PFC guidance referenced here to corroborate the established priority guidelines.

Based on the above described PFOS and PFOA screening methods, a general list of products was developed that meet the criteria of suspected products and/or industry processes:

High Priority:

- AFFF
- Fire training areas
- Metal plating, chrome plating

- Paperboard mills, coating, laminating, and treating
- Paraffin waxes, floor waxes, various cleaners
- Fabric and leather treatments
- Leather tanning and finishing
- Various surfactants
- Plastic food containers and products, waxed paper
- Waterproof fabric and coatings
- Photographic processes
- Non-stick cookware
- Dental wax manufacturing
- Various cosmetics
- Rubber and plastic products manufacturing (High or Low Priority depends on treatment or coating)
- Pesticides

Low Priority:

- Rubber and plastic products manufacturing (High or Low Priority depends on treatment)
- Paints and special coatings
- Airplane hydraulic fluid
- Paper and textile products with unknown treatments or coating
- Semiconductor manufacturing
- Fire training schools, services, and departments

3.2 SOURCES

The following summary provides each source of information used during the desktop research and review.

3.2.1 SIC and NAICS Codes

EA staff reviewed the SIC, established in 1937, and the NAICS industry identification codes to develop a list specific to the types of business activities, industry and/or manufacturing related to PFC use and/or production (NAICS, 2017; SIC, 2017). The codes identified through the search were prioritized into High and Low priority categories based on the criteria discussed in Section 3.1, and used to identify facilities through research efforts. The first code lists consisted of the full six-digit NAICS and four-digit SIC codes. The comprehensive list was submitted to the NDEQ project manager, who compiled a list of regulated Nebraska facilities identified with those codes.

Following the initial NDEQ search of their facility database, it was determined that a broader list of codes would need to be compiled to use for the search, ensuring the return of a fully comprehensive facility list. EA developed a revised list consisting of three-digit NAICS and two-digit SIC industry codes to ensure that all potential facilities were captured in the inventory listing. Tables B-1 and B-2 listing the final NAICS and SIC codes and their respective industry breakdowns, are provided as part of Appendix B.

3.2.2 DOD Fire/Crash Training Area Sites

EA reviewed the DOD Inventory of Fire/Crash Training Area Sites and compiled sites identified in Nebraska. This source identified three fire training areas at Offutt Air Force Base (DOD, 2014).

3.2.3 Nebraska State Fire Marshal Records

EA contacted Don Fritz, Assistant Fire Marshal; and Alan Joos, Training Division Chief, with the Nebraska State Fire Marshal to identify municipal and/or rural Fire/Crash Training sites throughout the state; and thus, identify sites that may have used AFFF. According to Mr. Fritz and Mr. Joos, the agency does not keep records on the use of past AFFF use at any of the fire departments, fire training areas, or crash sites in the state of Nebraska (Nebraska State Fire Marshal, 2017). Mr. Joos additionally indicated that fire training courses offered through the training division in Grand Island, NE are not tracked by location, but by individual student taking the course; therefore, the information is not public record.

3.2.4 Directory of Nebraska Manufacturers and their Products

EA reviewed the Directory of Nebraska Manufacturers and their Products from 1949 to 2004. The directories were available in print at the University of Nebraska Love Library for years 1949 to 1999; and digitally for years 2000 and 2004. A list of manufacturers and/or products was generated from review of the directories. Review of the directories was done during the compilation of the SIC and NAICS code lists, as the directories provided a brief description of business activities and therefore; provided key information on activities indicative of potential PFC use or manufacturing.

When it was determined that a broader list of SIC and NAICS codes was needed by the NDEQ for the regulatory facility search, EA completed this task a second time; ensuring that all necessary codes and potential facilities were captured in the inventory.

3.2.5 Facility Inventory Table

Table B-3, provided as part of Appendix B, provides a comprehensive, combined source list of all 990 facilities identified in the PFC inventory. The table includes information on the business or facility name; SIC and/or NAICS major and sub category coding; alternate category listings; short description of business if identified through the manufacturers directory; address; years that the facility was identified in the manufacturers directory; City; NDEQ facility ID if applicable; designation if the facility was identified in the NDEQ list of pre-treatment plants and associated Nebraska ID; legal description; North American Datum (NAD83) latitude and longitude; and NDEQ listed responsible party if applicable. Compilation of several sources stipulated that some facilities would show up in multiple sources and categories. EA went through each of the identified sites to ensure that multiple listings were removed and/or combined, and that all facilities were matched up with respective sources. These occurrences are briefly described below:

- Several different facilities could be identified by the Directory of Nebraska Manufacturers and their Products at one address for different years, under the same or different SIC and/or NAICS code of concern. Those facilities are separate facility listings in the table.
- Facilities that were identified by the same name with different addresses are separate facility listings in the table.
- Facilities identified by a variation of the same company name, in the same location, and with the same business listing were merged into one facility listing.
- Facilities with the same name that fell under several different SIC and/or NAICS codes of concern were merged into one facility listing in the table. The Alternate category listing provides the additional codes the facility was listed under.
- Several of the facility locations were identified only by city. Where no specific address could be ascertained, EA provided the latitude and longitude location for the center of that city.
- Fire training areas, such as Offutt; and fire departments and fire administrative offices were all categorized under major NAICS code 922. Fire training areas were split out into 922 - high priority and fire departments and offices were categorized as 922 - low priority. Fire training facilities have a higher potential of past AFFF use, whereas fire departments likely have a smaller probability of past AFFF use.

3.3 OTHER CONSIDERATIONS

This inventory is considered a comprehensive source compilation of NDEQ database information and available public data, and was not exhaustive in nature. Identification of a facility on this list does not indicate with certainty that it has contributed to PFOA/PFOS contamination. Due to the scope of this inventory and research methods utilized, there are additional facilities which may have used, manufactured, or accumulated PFC related materials in Nebraska, that are not included in this inventory. These facilities may include past aviation crash sites, oil spill sites, large fire sites where AFFF was used, past and present civilian and military airports, wastewater treatment plants, and landfills.

4. FINDINGS

The findings presented in this inventory identify facilities that potentially used and/or produced PFCs at both present and historic sites. In total, 990 sites have been identified within the state of Nebraska and have been summarized below by major two-digit SIC code in Table 1 and major three-digit NAICS code in Table 2.
